When a T. has a son or daughter, he or she is a K., the first child he has. When a K. first has a child, it's a Tokan. A man's children belong to the same gens as that of the man - Only if a woman has a bastard may she name it according to the gens. It is up to her to have it a T. or K. But any man can say "It is my child."

The Wolff bear clan have the privilege of conducting the wisake dance for at least several generations, though they don't belong <sup>per se</sup>. It suited them - given the <sup>to W</sup> to appear.
<sup>time of death of little woman</sup> It was joined on two other occasions - performed at Pustitotiques + at Pet Morgan's. Really doesn't belong to a clan.
