Language: Mexican Kickapoo

Collector: Dr. T. Michelson (Informant, Joe Murdock)

Place: - Date: Summer, 1930.

Remarks: Legends, misc. 3 notebooks, 25 cm., 213 p. (See list inside ms. container).

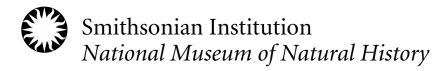

Cat. No. 3189 Mexican Kickapoo (1)

List of Legends:

Where the people had a town, and the chief had a son; apparently something on Midé and Wabano; A story of where the people had a town and the man moved; A witch causes death - - - ; Hog (the end is very much like the last story in Jones' Kickapoo text, and the so-called "Tiger" Story (Fox, informant, Jack Bullard - deceased); An old woman kills her daughter-in-law as she fell in love with her son-in-law (very much like Jones' Fox story. The ending is slightly different). What happened to a woman who hated her son-in-law (much the same as Jones' Fox story "How a girl hated the man who stayed with her parents; the bull frog episode appears in both); Skunk and opossum (almost exactly the same as Jones' Kickapoo story; ending is different); Raccoon tries to steal chickens and is caught by a Frenchman; story something like Wissler's "Split Feather" (the end is like one of Jones' Fox stories); V. Dentata; a story almost like Jones' story of the man who married mamy women (the louse episode occurred in both); Wisake and the "Flag";

List of legends (cont'd.) (2

Story that begins like the bear lover, goes on almost like Jones' Kickapoo story; (it is closer to the Apaiyashihagi story); The determination of paternity by passing? the baby; Potiphar's wife (ending different from Jones' Boy and the Giant (the Mayor's daughter episode is lacking and the ending is different; Snapping Turtle on the war path; Snapping Turtle runs a race with Black Hawk; White Blooms (a new story); Why Kickapoo did not eat Black Hawk, and the youth who fasted all month; (names of some Kickapoo months); A man lives with his son-in-law; An old man wishes his daughter to marry ("control of goods" under the "control of game" (some European elements); Story of Toetca (= Grub-worm) Lesbian; Ten men who were brothers together; (On last page apparently a summary of titles of stories running backward one page).
