mistapem ^{with vague} ^{animals also} ^{perhaps} mistapem is the one who talks to the conjuror who is in the conjuring-house. mistapem tells past, present, future. The older Indians say that when the conjuror has just stuck his head in the conjuring lodge when it begins to sway - pikhe ast'men ^{mistapem} is what the people say when the mistapem enters the tent. You can hear the conjuror talking and the mistapem will tell whether they will have luck in hunting. Perhaps the mistapem will tell him how to use the waxies, moose, etc. which he has killed.
He might tell him not to give certain the co bones to his dog - He might tell him not to waste his meat & not to lay the bones around. Sometimes the mistapem tells him to have a fancy cake or a feast at the start of the season. This is to bring good luck. Sometimes a man is conjuring against another. The conjuror may be having no luck in hunting, or something may be wrong with him. The conjuror may ask an old man to put up a conjuring house, one known to be good at it. and the mistapem will tell the old man who is conjuring the young man. A conjuror might be offended at the young man or when the young man asked for his daughter he might conjure him instead - Old people say this has been done again & again. [Apparently no fees for putting up a conjuring lodge] miten = conjuror. metwéh-keh-twéh he conjures against him. yágwā kómátwéh-ke-tág look out! he'll be conjuring you.

Kárwit is the name of a legendary conjuror at Rupert's House.

Teitci paigut a name of a legendary hero. the story is a man had 2 sons, mated with a lynx. Had many lynxes & sons - and bring them to their father who nearly collapses. He sings songs intending to destroy his human sons. They kill him -
